445 Spring Student-Athletes Receive Honors

HADLEY, Mass. – The New England Small College Athletic Conference announced its 2009 Spring All-Academic selections today, with 445 student-athletes that participated in a spring sport earning All-Academic recognition.

Of the 445 student-athletes that received Spring All-Academic accolades, 188 had the honor bestowed upon them a year ago - more than 42-percent.

Seven individuals garnered All-Conference, All-Sportsmanship, and All-Academic this season. The honorees were Amherst junior Jackie Tyler (Ridgewood, N.J.), Bowdoin junior Jamie Neely (Quincy, Mass.), Connecticut College senior Jill Sergi (Franklin, Mass.), Trinity senior Gautam Samarth (Pune, India), the Tufts tandem of seniors Chrissie Attura (Yarmouth, Maine) and Halsey Stebbins (Chicago, Ill.), and Elizabeth Burns (Dover, Del.) of Williams.

Notable members of the 2009 Spring All-Academic team include seniors Cary Gibson (Augusta, Ga.) and Annie Hancock (Syracuse, N.Y.) along with junior Grace Baljon (Ponte Vedra, Fla.) of the Williams women's tennis team.

Founded in 1971, the New England Small College Athletic Conference (NESCAC) consists of 11 liberal arts colleges and has consistently reflected its commitment to the values of athletics and academic achievement.
